

An End Time Vision

As the Ministers of the Sanctuary met on March 13th 2004 this vision was given. During the next few days the fullness of it was made known.

The perspective was from a lofty place looking down upon a river which was running through a wooded area. As I looked a man appeared from the woods moving toward the river. There was an open space between the woods and the river. He emerged cautiously looking up and down, and also across the river. After he came into the open another man appeared on the same side down river. This man also moved cautiously toward the river. They acknowledged one another but made no attempt to communicate. Then other men appeared down the length of the river all on the same side. Across the river they noticed a camp was prepared and the Lord himself was standing in the camp. After a while each of these Point men looked behind them and signaled toward the woods. Shortly afterward companies of people emerged from the woods. Not large numbers, but remnant companies. Now all began moving into the river. Then what looked like a female angel appeared on the shore. Her look was not as important as the feminine characteristics that she manifested. She remained on the shore and didn't move into the water.

Now a minstrel appeared, walking up and down the shoreline lifting up a song to the Lord. As he played a great number of people began to come out of the woods and make their way into the river. Next the Lord himself moved into the water. The flow of the river was moving away from him toward all who had entered. Suddenly the Angel rose up and began to fly over the people toward the Lord. A long train trailed behind her touching the people and imparting the female characteristics she represented to the company in the river. As a result not only did the people receive this needed impartation, but the river itself changed. Instead of flowing out from the Lord, it now flowed toward him. After spending a time in this new flow the people began leaving the river and returned to the woods. The vision ended as it had begun with the exception of the change in the direction of the flow of the river.

An Interpretation:

The river represents the flow of the Lord's purpose. The wood represents the place of his hidden, obscure and separated remnant. At an appointed time they are called out of obscurity in order for a corporate revelation and change to be made manifest. Each individual group has a Point man who emerges first to see what is beginning to happen. This man is not "the leader" of the group, simply one who is called to go first. These groups have no leader but the Messiah. As they move into the open they realize they are not alone. They see other men with the same calling. Their caution is not because of fear. It comes from a long period of separation in the wood where God has dealt with them as he did David in his time of preparation. David had no place in Saul's kingdom. He dwelt in caves and woods until his time came. Upon seeing others like themselves the Point men acknowledge one another and also the Lord's camp on the other side of the river. Seeing all is well they signal to their brothers to come forward and all begin to reenter the flowing purpose of God. As they stand in the river a fresh song of worship moves up and down the bank. Anointed minstrels appear to lead in the new song of the Lord.

A great company responds to this song and come into the flowing purpose of God. Now the angel who has been waiting for this moment rises into the air. She has something to impart to the people that is critical for their condition. Without this infusion the company will not be able to fully understand and participate in the change about to take place. She flies over the people her train touching them and changing them. After her pass, the river changes course and begins flowing the opposite way. The river that flows from the side of Messiah has gone out to all the world and now begins flowing back to and into his side. From his side the covenant of blood and water has called, separated and prepared his chosen. They have responded to his call to receive a final impartation of something feminine. This impartation brings forth the bride readied to be joined to her husband. Now the flow of his purpose is bringing his beloved back to his side. The ancient path has come full circle. The vision ends with the people returning to the wood. This shows the fullness of time has not yet come for the bride to come all the way to his side. The ministry of the spirit has done something wonderful to the people, but their time of completeness is not yet. More will happen to them in the wood as God continues to destroy Saul's kingdom.
